

SEVEN PEOPLE ENDANGERED IN BOILER BLAST

Explosion of Copper Condensing Tank Wrecks H. J.
Lindley Laundry.

WOMEN ARE HYSTERICAL

Blast Blows Out Wall, Breaks
Windows, But Workers Are Uninjured.

Explosion of a copper condensing tank at the H. J. Lindley laundry, 701 College avenue, today wrecked the rear end of the building. Seven people at work within the structure miraculously escaped injury, although two or three are on the verge of a nervous collapse.

The accident happened shortly before nine o'clock Friday morning, but the exact cause has not been determined. There was a loud report as the tank gave way and the building was filled with escaping steam as the pipes were torn from the large power boiler. The blast broke every window in the building and shattered a large plate glass window in the L. Bonini meat market across the street.

The condensing tank was about two feet in diameter and about three feet high and was made of copper. Return steam pipes from the laundry machines that are fed from the main boiler were piped to the tank. The condensed steam gave the laundry its hot water supply and was not known to show pressure at any time. It is believed that the container became filled with steam to such a pressure that the overflow pipe could not take care of it, or that pressure developed in some other way.

Wall Blown Out
Without warning the tank let go, hurling the top cover across the large workroom. The tank was fastened on the rear wall of the work room near the ceiling, just in front of the boiler compartment. The force of the explosion forced this wall out southward, wrecking the machinery and demolishing a portion of the boiler room and its piping. It was first believed that the large steam boiler had caused the explosion, but it stood intact.

The pressure exerted itself along the ceiling toward the front. Not only was every window in the building shattered, but the front window frames were split as well. Several windows in the Standard Oil company filling station next door were broken. Laundry that was finished and ready for delivery was soiled by the water that was sprayed all over the place.

Building
In the laundry at the Lindley Mrs.
H. J. Lindley, Miss Lynette Lindley,
Miss Emma Bauer, 211 Mason street,
Miss Antoinette VanderZanden, South
Kaukauna; Miss Elizabeth Meyer, 1174
Harris street, and Harry DeBruin,
721 Winnebago street, truck driver.
Mrs. Lindley had been in the boiler room and was returning to the front.
She was directly in the path of the explosion and fainted. The others fled from the building. Miss Lindley, who has charge of the office, was the last to leave. She said that all the others were away from harm before she took refuge outside. As soon as it was known that there was no further danger, she returned to the building
and took charge of affairs.

Mrs. Lindley was on the verge of a nervous collapse but insisted on remaining on the scene. Several of the girls were in an extremely nervous condition and were conveyed to their homes. No physical injuries of any kind were reported.

A fire department and the police ambulance rushed to the scene.
Crowds gathered immediately but were kept away from the building because of the danger from electric wires or the possibility of the wrecked wall at the rear caving in. Live coals from the boiler were scattered about but were extinguished with chemicals before the fire could take hold on the building.

It will probably be about a week before the laundry will be in operation again. Miss Lindley was unable to state whether the loss was covered by insurance, although she believed a policy was carried on the boiler.

GRECIAN REGENT INVITES KING TINO TO RETURN

By United Press Leased Wire
Athens—King Constantine was invited home today. The queen mother, Olga, as regent, sent this message
to Constantine at Lucern:
"The government, in obedience to the unanimous mandate of the Greek people, invites King Constantine to return to Athens, again take the throne and exercise the royal power
today exercised in his name by Queen Olga."

The invitation to return was a reconsideration of the plan to simply notify the king of election results and leave on him the onus for his return.

LEGISLATOR KILLED

Bucharest—An imperial machine was exploded in the Roumanian senate yesterday, killing one and wounding several others.
Ishoph Ordiaredu was killed instantly. Others wounded by flying fragments of furniture and fittings
were the minister of justice, the president of the senate, a senator and officials.
Planters of the bomb were not known.

Choir Boy Sings Farewell In State Historical Society of Comp

Chicago.—Nick Viano, a boy murderer, went to his death
here today on his 19th birthday,
without showing a trace of fear
and protesting his innocence.
He was hung for participating in the murder of Andrew Bowman a saloonkeeper.
"It is no disgrace to die for my father, mother and sisters," the 19 year old lad said as the noose was adjusted.
Viano declared that while he did not do the shooting, he would not tell who did because of threats made against his family's lives if he turned state's witness.
The trap was sprung at 8:30 a.
m. His neck was broken and he was pronounced dead five minutes later.
Strong efforts had been made by clubs and societies to save the boy's life. Jane Addams and other leaders protested the hanging because of his youth. The boy sang his last song for his mother when she visited him in the death cell shortly before midnight. As the mother parted from her son for the last time, she asked him to sing for her once more. The boy's voice, steady and clear, rang through the long corridors of the jail with Kipling's "Mother O' Mine."
The aged and withered Sicilian mother held her son closely in her arms, and he sang:
"If I were hanged on the highest hill,
O mother of mine, mother of mine
I know whose love would follow me still,
O mother of mine, mother of mine."
Scores of relatives and friends who crowded the corridor and the jail courtyard wept. Sicilian madonnas with flaming shawls, their young ones tugging at their skirts, weiled.

BRITAIN AWATS ANNOUNCEMENT OF U. S. NAVAL PLANS

England Will Base Her Ship Building Program on America's Actions.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—Great Britain is awaiting an announcement of the American naval building program before proceeding with her own, according to belief in naval and diplomatic circles here today.

This interpretation was put upon the reported announcement to the senate of commons that an explanation of the British program would be held up.

Meanwhile the American program awaits the incoming Harding administration.
Secretary Daniels is to go before the house naval committee next Tuesday with building recommendations but it is very certain the republican congress will not accept them. It is believed that the next few months, therefore, may determine whether Great Britain and the United States are to enter upon naval competition or tend toward an agreement for reduction of armaments. Unless Britain stimulates her naval strength with new construction, it is estimated that within four years the United States will possess 35 capital ships, with a tonnage of 1,150,000 in comparison to 36 capital British vessels with a tonnage of 883,000.

It is the possibility of Britain adding new impetus to her traditional sea power that has attracted attention to the house of commons announcement.

Possibility of evolving an Anglo-American understanding limiting sea armaments also is expected to depend on the will of the new administration.

85 INDICTED ON CHARGE OF BREAKING "DRY" LAWS

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—Warrants were being prepared today for the arrest of 85
alleged liquor law violators, indicted
by the federal grand jury here, which reported in court late yesterday. It is thought the list of accused includes members of the million dollar "lake boat" whisky ring, as well as alleged bootleggers and saloonists in a number of cities in the eastern part of the state, in the jurisdiction of this federal court. These indictments, together with twenty returned last week, brought the total up to 105, a new record for a grand jury session here.
The jury has not completed its work
and will be held as a special investigating body until the next term of court.

CLOSE LAST CHAPTER IN KING WILL CASE

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago—The final chapter in the noted James A. King will contest case was written here today when Judge Jesse A. Baldwin handed down a decision refusing to probate the will offered by Mrs. Mary C. Melvin, sister of King's wife and Gaston B. Means, fired for murdering Mrs. King.
This permits the original will leaving the estate of the multi-millionaire
a trust fund to stand.
Efforts were made during the hearing on the case to show that Mrs. Melvin Means was a forgery.

COURT TO HEAR RAIL CASE AGAINST STATE

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—Application of railroads entering Wisconsin to restrain the state from interfering with enforcement of the 3.6 cents a mile passenger rate, will be heard in federal court here tomorrow.
The bench will be occupied by Federal Judges Aleschuler and Baker, of Chicago, and Geiger, of Milwaukee,
who compose the United States circuit court of appeals. In event an appeal of the decision is taken it will go direct to the supreme court. The state will be represented by the attorney general and aides.

BRITAIN WILL NOT DEAL WITH DAIL EIREANN

Lloyd George Destroys Hope for Irish Peace With Announcement Today.

EXTREMISTS ARE BLAMED

Irish People Want Peace But Leaders Will Not Permit,
Premier Says.

London.—Martial law has been proclaimed in a limited area of southwest Ireland, the Irish office announced today.

The proclamation was issued shortly after Premier Lloyd George stated in commons that the government will pursue a "double policy" in Ireland, crushing the "murder campaign," but encouraging any agency attempting to obtain peace.

The southwest portion of Ireland has been the scene of many bitter fights between Sinn Feiners and police.

London—Hopes for Irish peace were dashed by Lloyd George's announcement in the house of commons
today of the government's refusal to recognize or negotiate with the Dail Eireann (Irish parliament) on which the Sinn Feiners had insisted.

No formal negotiations have been attempted, Lloyd George told the house, although peace makers on both sides have communicated with their government.

The prime minister declared he was
"carefully considering" extremists controlling the "murder campaign"
were not ready for peace.

"The only basis for peace," the premier declared, "will be acceptance
by our opponents of unknown unity
for the United Kingdom."

The people of Ireland themselves are most anxious for peace, Lloyd George said, but the extremists will not permit.

Still Hoped for Peace
Announcement of Lloyd George's plan to discuss the Irish situation
draw an unusual crowd to commons
today.

The premier went to the heart of the matter at once by declaring the government could not recognize the Dail Eireann as a body qualified to speak for the Irish people.

Since this body could not be recognized, he declared, the government had made no effort to enter negotiations. He reiterated that the government hoped for peace and was ready to discuss it with any person or organization it could recognize as representative of the Irish people.

He told of interviews with Arthur Henderson and William Adamson, labor members of the house, who investigated conditions in Ireland and came back with a report that the leaders were ready to accept peace.
He mentioned also the report of Archbishop Clune who had seen Arthur Griffith, acting head of the Sinn Fein,
at Mountjoy prison in Dublin.

These conversations, he said, had convinced him that the people of Ireland desired peace but that the extremists who were responsible for the murder campaign, had shown they were not ready to abandon their warfare.

Martial law in the most disturbed parts sections of Ireland will be proclaimed, Lloyd George declared.

The premier said residents of the areas to be placed under martial law will be allowed a reasonable time to surrender their arms and uniforms.
After that period possessors of weapons or wearers of uniforms will be treated as rebels, he said, liable to court martial and the death sentence.
The same rules apply to barborers
of rebels, he declared.

The premier said it was determined best to conduct a "double policy"
in Ireland. While intensifying its campaign to stamp out murder, it will encourage every agency really anxious to obtain peace.

"Sinn Fein communications received by the government were conceived in the spirit of an independent belligerent power," Lloyd George said.

ACCUSED SLAYER OF BOYS ENDS HIS LIFE

Marion, Illinois.—Frank Bianco, accused murderer of two boys at West Frankfort, Ill., whose trial was in progress, committed suicide by hanging himself in the jail here early
today.

The murder of the two youths was the cause of riots which broke out in West Frankfort last summer, resulting in the death of several persons and looting of many places of business.

Girl Ends Life After Conversation With Man

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—Betsey Lewis, 18 year old society girl who shot herself following a mysterious telephone conversation
with an unidentified man last night,
committed suicide in a fit of temporary aberration, her sister told reporters
in the presence of family friends today.
"She didn't mean to do it," the sister, Mrs. J. T. Talbert, widow of the banker who prepared the draft of the federal reserve act, declared.
"Betsey couldn't have been herself.
She loved life so. She was so happy one moment, then the telephone rang and after she had talked with this man a moment, she walked into her bedroom. There was a shot and she called out my name, 'Myra.' I ran in to see my little sister lying on the bed, a pistol on the floor and the front of her dress covered with blood.
"Oh, it was horrible."
According to Mrs. Talbert, a little woman of only 23, her sister had several beaux but "about ten days ago
she met a man at the Ritz who interested her greatly."
"I met him Tuesday night at the Volsin restaurant and he made such a favorable impression on me that I told Betsey he was the most likable o her admirers. Later I learned something that caused me to tell my siste
that she must never see him again."
"She was expecting a call from him
last night. It must have been him with whom she was talking. I haven' any idea what they said to each other."
Mrs. Talbert left the impression however, that her sister might have told him she had been advised by Mrs.
Talbert never to see him again.
The refusal of Mrs. Talbert to reveal the name of the man was due t her unwillingness to involve him i
any way, according to her friends.
Mrs. Talbert was close to a nervou breakdown.

LYNCH LAW INVOKED TO AVENGE DEATHS OF THREE CALIFORNIA POLICE OFFICERS

HEAVY SHADOW OF TRAGEDY IS OVER CAPITAL

Wilson Is Only the Ghost of the President Who Once Thrilled World.

CLINGS TO CONVICTIONS

President St'Il Has Faith in Partnership of Nations for Peace.

By David Lawrence
Washington.—Although this has been an eventful week in the national capital with congress opening and President-elect Harding delivering a farewell address to his colleagues in the senate, the most thrilling incident was the pathetic meeting at the White House between President Wilson and his political foe, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, the leader o
the republican opposition.

From those who stood in the blue room and saw framed in the doorway
the enfeebled figure of the man who once thrilled the world with his words,
comes a picture today to the writer
that could not but melt the bitterness of partisanship and substitute a consoling sympathy in these last days of the Wilson administration.

It is customary for congress on the day of its opening to send a committee of the two houses to notify the president that all is in readiness to receive any communication he may have. Senator Lodge and Underwood, and Representatives Mondell, Fordney and Champ Clark were appointed to go to the White House for that purpose. They were received in the blue room and stood in the center of the room waiting for the door of the red room to be opened. An attendant stood beside the president as the door
swung open, having supported him in the walk to the door, but as the president entered the blue room leaning on his cane, the attendant stood aside.

There has been a misunderstanding
of the first words which the president spoke. "You see, gentlemen, I cannot yet dispense with my third leg." The first newspaper accounts referred to the fact that Mr. Wilson did not shake hands with his callers but failed to give the reason for this unusual attitude. The truth is that Mr. Wilson wished his callers to understand that he could not shake hands with them as he needed his right hand to support himself on his cane, while his left hand has not recovered its full vigor. That was the purpose of his remark.

As the president spoke, his head was bowed. He did not stand with the same erectness which has so often characterized his meetings with people in the White House. His eyes were turned downward. His voice was not strong but it was clear. His callers heard and understood every word spoken. The occasion called for formality and Mr. Wilson spoke in a quiet tone, saying he would communicate a message to congress the next day. He used the word "communicate" and did not say whether he would send his message to be read by a clerk or would read it himself.

Wanted to Read Message
All day Monday the president felt

LET SCIENCE HELP WHEN WASHDAY COMES

There are a thousand ways in which time and labor may be saved
in the arrangement and equipment
of the home laundry room.

Any housewife may apply tests to soaps which will tell whether they are too strong or too mild and warn her of the effects they may be expected to have on cottons, silks or woollens.

In ironing clothes there are certain facts an understanding of which may save gingham from scorches, taffetas from fading,
woollens from shrinking.

There is starch lore and bluing lore. All of these are to be found in a Government bulletin distri-

U. S. IS DUMPING

Congressman Declares Euro-

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—Several foreign governments are financing movements to dump their undesirable citizens on the United States, Representative Harold Knutson, Minnesota, a member of the house immigration committee, charged in opening debate
in the house today on the bill to suspend immigration for two years.

Knutson did not specifically name
the governments which he claims are guilty of such practices but inferred that Spain was one of the nations.

The house immigration committee in a meeting just before the house opened approved two amendments to the bill.

One provides that the proposed suspension shall in no way interfere with Oriental exclusion agreements. The other allows naturalized citizens of those who have taken out their first papers to send for their wives who reside in foreign countries. As origin-

for blood relatives. Representative planned to flock to one country to escape war burdens. He claimed that the people of California have not over-stated the problem of Oriental exclusion.

HAMON'S NEPHEW SCOFFS AT HIS WIFE'S STORY

By United Press Leased Wire
Dixon, Cal.—Frank Hamon, husband of Ruth Walker Hamon, who was located on a ranch 15 miles south of here today, denied that his purpose in marrying Clara Smith Hamon was as a convenience for his niece, the late Jacob L. Hamon.

"The $100 a month I received from my uncle was as a salary after I gave up a position in one of his oil fields
due to lung trouble," said Hamon.

"I was getting the allowance long before I married Clara Smith."
He denied that Mrs. Jacob Hamon received $1,000 a month, and declared that he believed in his uncle's statement that the shooting was accidental.

Mrs. Frank Hamon, working in Sacramento, under the name of Ruth

clared that she believed her husband had gone to Cuba. Mrs. Frank Hamon has since disappeared.

Masked Mob Takes Prisoners From Jail and Hangs Them to Tree in Cemetery.

SHERIFF IS OVERPOWERED

Prisoners Were Charged With Attacking Young Women and Slaying Police.

By United Press Leased Wire
Santa Rosa, Cal.—A voracious enraged Sheriff Boyes and his deputies from blame in connection with the lynching here early today of three white men, was returned by the coroner's jury today.

The jury found that the men
"met death by being hanged by the neck by a crowd of unknown
persons who stormed the jail, overpowered the sheriff and his deputies and took the prisoners
from them."

Santa Rosa, Calif.—Judge Lynch, unreasoning advocate of the days of gold in California, came back to the bench today.

Impersonated by a mob of 75 to 100
angry citizens, he passed and executed a death sentence upon Terrence Pitts, George Boyd and Charles Valento, all white, American citizens, alleged members of a San Francisco gang accused of the murder of three peace officers and of unspeakable attacks on two girl telephone operators.

An hour after the three men had been strung from the same limb on a big oak tree in the Odd Fellows' cemetery on the outskirts of Santa Rosa, Coroner Phillips and Sheriff Boyes
went out and cut down the bodies.
But they didn't do it until scores of Santa Rosa citizens—including many women—had made a pilgrimage to the cemetery and stood there silently gazing upon the three tortured forms
as they swung in the breeze which was blowing a soft mist around them.

There they were dangling about three feet from the ground, the three men who had been indicted for the murder Sunday of Sheriff James Pe-tray, of Sonoma county, and Detectives Miles Jackson and Lester Dorman, of San Francisco.

Men Are Tortured
Boyd, who had confessed the killing of the three officers, was hanging
at the end of the limb, his face expressionless for he was nearly dead
from a mortal wound when the lynchers pulled the rope. Pitts, his head cut open, his mouth sagged and his face contorted with terror, was in the middle. Valento, a defiant, half smile still on his face, his body stripped to the waist, just as he was found in bed at the jail, was nearest the trunk of the tree.

The mob had formed quietly and Judge Lynch had acted swiftly.
About one o'clock this morning antomobiles began driving into the town.
Masked men were at the wheels and in the seats. They carried shotguns.

Presently at a given signal they poured into the office of Sheriff Boyes, pointed to a picture of the murdered Sheriff Petray, hanging on the wall, and shouted:

"Look at that; isn't that enough?"
Outnumbered and with six shotguns pointed at him the sheriff said he could not resist.

The lynchers took his keys, opened the cells, dragged out the prisoners and rushed them into autos.

Screams Rent Air
Then a cavalcade of about thirty motorcars, each filled with masked men, drove silently through the most fashionable section of the town to the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

With hardly a word passed, except for the screaming and pleading of Pitts, they placed the nooses and lifted the three men to their death.

It was the "hanging law" of the forty-niners modernized which was ruling
again for the first time in many years in California.

Instead of the old mining camp wagon which hauled the victims of the gold hunters' wrath to their doom, costly motorcars were used. Instead of the glow of lanterns, the ghastly
gleam of an automobile headlight
made the tortured, writhing bodies glow ghost-like amid the mist which helped darken the night.

It was done with modern efficiency
—quickly over in half an hour, hardly a word spoken, not a shot fired.
The roaring cursing, reckless mob of old mining days had been replaced.

Lynching Was Feared
The lynching had been feared since the murders Sunday afternoon.
Sheriff James Petray, of Sonoma county, and Detective Miles Jackson and Lester were killed in a gun fight with the three men.

The shooting occurred when the officers attempted to arrest Valento on a charge of being a member of the so-called Howard Street vice gang in San Francisco. He was accused of seducing Jessie Montgomery and Joan Stanley telephone operators, on "banksgiving day." The operations of his gang resulted in widespread terror and the public was aroused.

The officers found Valento with Pitts and Boyd at the home of Peter Biddell, here. When they demanded the surrender of the trio, the gangsters opened fire, killing the three officers instantly.

Boyd, in a confession, admitted he had shot all three officers but the jury indicted Pitts and Valente with him. Sheriff Hovey arrived at the scene shortly after 2 a. m., in company with coroner Frank Phillips who cut down the bodies and removed them to a downtown undertaker's establishment. "I had no chance," said Sheriff Hovey.

Will Investigate

Six guns were poked in my face by the mob and two men rushed around the counter and grabbed my arms. "Just as I was leaving the telephone bell rang and with a pair of pinchers a man cut the wire. "Every man of them was masked and muffled until I could not have told whether or not my best friends were in the bunch. They were too finely organized."

District Attorney Hoste said: "The lawlessness of the thing is what appals me. It now becomes my duty as district attorney to conduct an investigation to determine if possible who are responsible for this lawless act."

John M. Powers of Sterling, Ill., spent Thursday here on business.

1,400 PYTHIANS SEE INITIATION

Mr. Elmina and daughter, who are playing in vaudeville at the Appleton theater, performed for the visitors. A late luncheon was also served.

The headquarters for the visitors was at Castle hall, where they were provided with attention and entertainment until the initiatory ceremonies opened. The candidates assembled at the hall and were escorted to the chapel in a body, where the Garfield lodge put on the work shortly after eight o'clock. No end of praise was heard for the work of the degree team, which exhibited years of training and hard work. The obligation was given the new members by Fred Wheaton, Minneapolis, supreme keeper of records and seal.

High Officers Here

Several other leading officials of the Knights of Pythias assisted in the exercises, including Henry A. Staab, Milwaukee, grand chancellor, I. Gillette, Milwaukee, grand keeper of records and seal, Charles Lubbey, Milwaukee, grand lecturer, and Arthur Schuman, Milwaukee, Grand master-at-arms.

A number of wives of Pythians attended the ceremonies. They were taken in charge after the meeting by a committee consisting of Mrs. Paul Hackbert, Mrs. John Engle, Mrs. William Eschner, Mrs. Louis Bonini and Mrs. Roland Manser. A luncheon was served at Castle hall and a program of recitations and music given, in which Mrs. Engel and Mrs. Eschner took part.

High tribute was paid to the Appleton lodge for its work in making the event such as an unqualified success. All the members were said to have labored untiringly in preparation to make it the biggest and best ever held by a Pythian order. Especial mention was given to the officers on whom direct responsibility for its success was laid. They were Paul Hackbert, chancellor, commander, Frank Zehr, vice chancellor, Frank McGowan, state lodge representative and chairman of arrangements, H. P. Hecker, past representative, and H. L. Post, chancellor commander.

The members of the Garfield lodge could not say enough in praise of Appleton and its Pythian order. They were pleased beyond measure when they were assured made Lawrence (Came) which was said to be the most attractive and most adaptable building in which they had ever conferred degrees. The manner in which the visitors were escorted about the entertainment provided and the untiring work which culminated in the successful staging of the initiation were something they had never experienced before and had no hesitation in expressing their appreciation.

COURT WILL TEST POWER OF ARMY OVER CIVILIANS

By United Press Leased Wire. Houston, Texas—Power of the military over civilians outside a specified martial law zone will be tested here as a result of a civil suit for damages filed today in district court by the Houston Press in behalf of its editor, G. V. Sanders.

The suit is directed against Col. Billie Mayfield, of the Texas national guard, and three lieutenants of the guard.

Sanders asks $10,000 actual damages and $15,000 exemplary damages for false arrest.

The suit is the outcome of the attempted arrest of Editor Sanders by three state guard lieutenants under orders of Colonel Billie Mayfield, August 30, during occupation of Galveston.

Questions of freedom of speech, right of habeas corpus and trial by jury are involved in the case.

The attempted kidnapping of the editor, coming at a time when the Galveston trouble was at its highest pitch, caused a sensation in Texas. As editor of the Press, Sanders had attacked the martial rule which Brigadier General J. J. Walter commanded over Galveston county from June 7 to Oct. 8.

Sociality Entertainment. The Ladies' Sociality of St. Mary church will give an entertainment at Columbia hall Monday afternoon and evening.

The People's Forum

Found Not Guilty. In an article published in the Post-Crescent Monday, Dec. 6 it stated that Harry La Fond and Alvin Boehme took two young ladies out for a joyride against their will. Also that the car was driven against the will of the young ladies. The auto was punned between two cars on the curb and the young ladies asked the assistance of the boys to back it out for them. One of the girls suggested going to Little Chute where they went and returned. The party were having a good time until they returned and when one of the girls anticipated the consequences, she fainted. She stood by Kerns in the trial. Miss Murphy told the true story on the witness stand. The boys were tried in court Wednesday, Dec. 8 and were found not guilty of the charge and were discharged by the court.

dispose of to go to congress in person. His physician and advisers were against it. And the truth is that not until one hour and a half before congress met on Tuesday did the president yield. He hoped to the last to gather enough strength to speak his farewell to congress.

Why was the president so eager to read his message? It was simply to give utterance to something that keeps burning for expression—the faith he has in the righteousness of an ultimate partnership with other nations for the preservation of world peace. It was because he wanted to express face to face with his opponents this personal paragraph, the conclusion of his message:

"I have not so much laid before you a series of recommendations, gentlemen, as sought to utter a confession of faith, of the faith in which I was bred and which it is my solemn purpose to stand by until my last fighting day. I believe this to be the faith of America, the faith of the future, and of all the victories which await national action in the days to come, whether in America or elsewhere."

Wilson's Valedictory. The foregoing is Wilson's valedictory to congress. He may send other messages, he may issue other state ments but it was meant to be his answer to the election returns of last November. He clings still to the conviction that his cause will be vindicated. He repeats again and again to his friends an epigram which he first used eight years ago in the political campaign: "I would rather fail in a cause that I know some day will triumph than to triumph in a cause that I know some day will fail."

Amid all the excitement of the week, the joy of the republicans and the earnest hopefulness which Warren Harding displayed in his parting speech to the senators, there was a shadow of tragedy even at the capitol where foes and friends alike realized that the spirit of Woodrow Wilson had not surrendered even though the giant figure in the doorway gazed downward in physical defeat. ## PAULINE IS GETTING USED TO KIDNAPING

By United Press Leased Wire. Chicago—Late is just one kidnapping after another for Pauline Fillman, six years old.

Pauline was living with her mother, Gladys Crocker, at Racine, Wis., when an automobile drove up to the door and several men grabbed the girl.

She was taken to the home of her father who is living here, having obtained a divorce from his first wife. The father claimed courts had awarded him custody of the girl.

Three women and a man drove up to the Fillman home here last night and a girl was seized and rushed to her Racine home.

Police called at the home and the mother said she had been given custody of the child.

Courts will probably be called on to decide who shall have the girl.

Miss Leone Walters, who is in training to become a nurse at St. Joseph hospital, Milwaukee, is visiting her parents here.

Labor Organizations Will Be Well Represented at Chapel Sunday Night.

Preparations are being made to accommodate the largest crowd of the season at the People's Forum meeting Sunday evening when John P. Burke, president of the International Brotherhood of Pulp and Sulphite Workers, discusses "Labor's View of the Industrial Problem." Every labor organization in the city will be represented, it was said. That there is an industrial problem will be admitted by every one. That there are two sides to this problem is also quite generally admitted. Mr. Burke is well qualified to present labor's views and he can do it in an entertaining manner. Mr. Burke has many friends in Appleton who remember him for his work here during a labor disturbance five or six years ago. He is known to hundreds of Appleton men who will be interested in hearing his version of the one the most interesting and most important of the many problems before the American people.

CURBING CONSTANTINE

Greece cannot hope to maintain friendly relations with the allies after restoring Constantine to the Greek throne. A note sent recently by the British, French and Italian governments, after referring to their consistent friendliness and support of Greek aims, said:

"They (the powers referred to) have no wish to interfere in the internal affairs of Greece, but feel bound to declare publicly that restoration to the throne of a king whose disloyal attitude and conduct towards the allies during the war caused them great embarrassment and loss could only be regarded by them as ratification by Greece of his hostile acts."

This step would create a new and unfavorable situation in the relations between Greece and the allies, and in that case the three governments reserve to themselves complete liberty in dealing with the situation thus created.

The note was uncompromising, but the three powers signing it did not over-estimate the situation. The antagonism of Constantine and his household to allied policies cannot be disavowed, and the recent report that in the event of Constantine's restoration the kaiser would seek refuge in Greece complicates the situation still further.

Greece as a loyal friend of the allies could safely be permitted expansions of territory and power. Greece as a forsworn and Prussianized nation becomes a dangerous link between Germany and the near east.

The allies would not be justified in barring Constantine from Greece, and they have not undertaken to do that. They are, however, justified in taking whatever measures are necessary to insure that, when Constantine does resume his throne, he cannot use Greece again as an instrument to extend German domination and thwart the will of the rest of Europe.

SALVAGED SEEDS

A tomato seed does not appeal to many persons as an article to be coveted either for its intrinsic value or for any artistic satisfaction it might afford. Greenhouses are compelled to work with tomato seeds, perhaps, but the amateur or professional gardener prefers to ignore the seed and to set out well-started plants in his tomato patch.

Yet here comes the department of agriculture with statistics showing that 1000 tons of tomato seeds are thrown away annually in the process of canning that pulpy, edible fruit of a solanaceous herb. Before asking lightly, "What of it?" the reader should consider the fact that those seeds, if properly saved and prepared, would be worth about $86,000 for edible oil and stock food.

The department of agriculture estimates that cost of handling 1,000 tons of tomato seeds would be about $35,000 a year. That would mean a net gain from such conservation of $51,000, not to mention the edible oil and stock food. Incidentally, the same machinery used in the conservation of tomato seeds could be used for grape, squash or other seeds, thus opening the way for greater thrift in the handling of many fruits and vegetables passing through the canneries.

The housewife would not gain much by attempting to hoard tomato seeds with a view to manufacturing lucrative products. But there is no reason why a large canning plant should overlook the by-products suggested by agricultural department experts. This is the day of conservation, of salvaging what used to be looked upon as waste material, and of making even the smallest things count in production.

WAVE OR BUSINESS?

When the ministers of Chicago united to give their backing to the authorities in the suppression of crime, one of them made the pertinent suggestion that crime is not a "wave" but a business. And so it is. A business carefully organized, with branches in every city and town, stretching out into the rural districts, and in many instances invading circles which supposedly should be free from it. Only by equally well organized business methods can it be overcome.

The sporadic effort here and there does little good. Stopping one channel accomplishes little if a thousand are left open. Crime works day and night, the year round; so must reform. A month's super-activity will have some slight deterrent effect, but that is all. Putting a house in order may be one day's job for one member of a household, but keeping it in order is a job for 365 days in the year, and every member of the family must do his share if it is to be completely successful.

It is because the public has thought of the recent criminal outburst as a wave which would subside of itself that it has attained its ominous proportions all over the country. When the people, the pulpit, the press and the courts accord it the importance which it deserves, and unite to fight it with organizations the equal of its own, crime will subside.

GERMAN MUSIC

The announcement of the Manhattan Opera House, New York City, that it proposes to give German opera in German next month arouses mingled emotions in the breast of the American music-lover.

The bitterness which banished all German music indiscriminately during the years of the war has evidently subsided. This is just as well. Nothing German could have been tolerated at that time; but now that the tides of war have ebbed, it is proper to make distinctions. Most of the great music of Germany was written either before the Prussian military development of the last forty years, or was written by men whose beliefs were directly antagonistic to the military spirit. Wagner, Schubert, Schumann, Bach, Brahms, Beethoven—one can but smile at the idea of Prussianism in connection with any of them.

But there is one mistake that ought not to be repeated, when these great ones are taken from the closet once more to occupy their proper places. The superstition that all German music is good just because it is German should never be revived. That was part of the Prussian propaganda, of the German sentimentalism and narrowness which saw no good outside of Germany.

The temporary retirement of German music has given a stimulus to appreciation of the rest of the great music of the world. It has given a stimulus to the composition of real American music. So long as Americans followed the German methods, they wrote no good music nor any national music. When they began to dare to be themselves, they began to produce good stuff.

Very little good music has come out of Germany in the last forty years. But during that time there have been Puccini, Debussy, Saint Saens, and the Russian makers of tremendously vital music whose name is legion. There have been MacDowell, Cadman, Foote and a host of other fellow-citizens of ours, none of whom, except MacDowell, have worn the mantle of genius, but most of whom have turned out one or two compositions fit to bear the high name American.

THE LAST FLY OF SUMMER

(With Moore Apologies)

'Tis the last fly of summer
Left dawdling alone,
All her lively companions
Have dried up and blown.
No fly of her kindred,
Not one of her ilk,
Is elsewhere in the butter,
Or bathes in the milk.

I'll not leave thee, thou lone one,

To pine in this spot.

Since thou loved ones are swatted,

Thou, too, I wouldst await.

Thus kindly I spatter

Thy brains on the bread—

Now, what was the matter?

I missed thee, instead.

Yet still I shall follow

Till thou shalt decay.

And from salad to coffee

I'll wait thee away.

When old flies lie withered

And new flies have flown,

Why shouldst thou inhabit

SENTENCES KIDS TO SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Kansas City, Mo.—Five boys found guilty of tearing down a stone wall and rolling the stones into the street, are considering appealing from the sentence inflicted by Judge A. J. Herrod as being cruel and unusual punishment. "I sentence the five of you to Sunday school," ordered the judge. "Bring me a letter from the pastory of whatever church you go to, saying you have attended Sunday school, or there'll be some rough sledding ahead of you."

MAJOR MIGRAINE

I am still too frequently chagrined by the receipt of letters from readers who assure me I have described their cases better than they could do it themselves—and will I kindly advise the proper remedy.

Here is a reader who describes migraine better than I can do it myself:

Dear Doctor:
The burden of your song has ever been "Consult your family physician." I have done so. In fact I have consulted about a dozen of him, have been examined from cellar to garret, have had urinalyses by entire strangers, Wassermann until at times I have had hardly enough blood for my own needs, stomach analyses, nose and throat examinations by nose and throat experts who turned me over to oculists for expert eye examinations, the oculists in turn referring me to neurologists and the neurologists summoning orthopedic specialists and the ortho—but YOU know all about that. The verdict or good-bye word in every instance has been "The examination discloses nothing which would cause the condition you complain of."

That condition, now for the "symptoms," which you so cordially hate to be told—
A blind spot suddenly appears before my eyes, usually about a foot in diameter at ten feet but never in the direct line of vision, sometimes at one side, sometimes at the other or below or above. This lasts fifteen to thirty minutes, then gradually leaves after which I am seized with severe headache. If the blind spot is at the left, the pain is in the right side of the head, and vice versa. I have had these attacks for fifteen years, at first six months to a year apart, but lately much oftener, sometimes only a week apart, though they are not now so severe. Any information you may be able to give me...

The peculiarity of migraine (formerly called neuralgia and popularly called sick headaches) is the aura or warning which precedes the attack. In this and other features migraine closely resembles epilepsy; indeed, one student of the condition termed it the "sensory equivalent" of epilepsy. Both conditions occur in the offspring of parents with some defect of the nervous system. No demonstrable cause can be found for either condition.

Usually the victim sees a bright spot, instead of a dark one, and this spot, at one side of the field of vision, enlarges and changes to zigzags (fortification spectra) at the outside as it becomes dark in the center. After fifteen to thirty minutes the spot disappears, the face becomes pale, and the pain begins in one temple, spreading through one side of the head.

It is aggravated by noise, light or confusion; relieved by rest, darkness and recumbent posture. After a few hours usually some nausea and vomiting occur. But the vomiting is an effect of the head pain—the pain is so great that it makes the patient "sick." It is a popular error to assume that the headache is caused by "upset stomach." Usually, too, some bile appears after the first few acts of vomiting, provided there is no serious trouble with the liver and its machinery. It is, therefore, a mistake to attribute the attack to "biliousness." There is no such condition as "biliousness"—I mean the presence of "too much bile" never really accounts for an illness or even a slight indisposition. That is a mere fancy of persons unlightened concerning physiology—a fancy played upon by the quacks and nostrum exploiters for what profit they may be in it.

After some hours drowsiness and sleep follow, with prompt recovery of normal health. In some cases the attacks last for two or three days.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

To-Hi! Ain't it Awful

I have been wetting my hair twice a day for years without knowing that it was unhealthy. Late-ly I caught a bad cold and I was advised not to wet my hair in the morning or when going out into the street, as that will give anybody a cold. Would like your opinion about it. (M. R.)

ANSWER—I do not advise wetting the hair, for the hair's sake, but one who wets the hair is no more likely to be made sick thereby than is one who wets his fingernails in the fingerbowl.

Tumor and Cancer

Is a tumor practically one and the same thing as a cancer? (M. J. H.)

ANSWER—No. Any swelling or growth is called a tumor, and a tumor may be perfectly harmless even if unsightly or annoying. Cancer is not a new growth, but a degeneration of some part of the body or of a tumor perhaps. Charlatans pur-possely try to confuse the lay mind, in order to en-joy the name of having cured alleged "cancers" which were not cancers at all. Tumor may require no treatment. Cancer is fatal unless promptly eradicated by surgery.

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—How did you start your life of crime? Fred Poffenberger, confessed participant in the big mail car robbery, was asked by officers. "When I was 14 years old, I put cookie burrs in a little girl's hair," replied Poffenberger, with a tear trickling down his cheek.

Golden Gate Park.

By Frederic J. Haskin

San Francisco, Calif.—Golden Gate Park in San Francisco enjoys not only the worshipful homage of all Californians, but world-wide fame as well. Many Europeans and Asiatics who have never heard of the California redwoods or the Yosemite Valley know all about this park, and hurry to see it as soon as they arrive in San Francisco.

For Golden Gate Park, with all its "natural" beauty—its lakes and hills and wooded islands—is a made park, created entirely by the park commissioners of San Francisco since 1870. Before that date, the space now containing the park was a mere expanse of sand dunes stretching desolately down to the Pacific Ocean. Certainly not an encouraging prospect for a park, but the city had its own reasons for wanting it there. For one thing the property then was not as valuable as that in other sections of the city, and the adjustment of land titles, it was thought, would be an easy matter. As it happened, many greedy landowners attempted to interfere with the enterprise, but the city finally bought 1,013 acres of the dunes at the price of $800,000.

Once in possession of the tract, the park commissioners immediately started their comprehensive scheme for improving it. It was a courageous task, for the city had no money. The park commissioners struggled for a long time, every step of its work was rendered difficult. The necessary supplies of loam and fertilizing material were obtained only after much agitation, and then an independent water supply had to be fought for. While the San Franciscans of today insist that they always knew the park would turn out to be the handsomest thing that it is, and that they were enthusiastic about it from the very beginning, the park records show that popular interest in those early days was very slim. Perhaps this was only natural, since that the landscape artist saw in the mind's eye was by no means visible to the ordinary citizen.

Conquering the Dunes

According to Superintendent John McLaren, who lives in the park, and has been engaged in developing it for many years, the sand dunes, in the beginning, stubbornly resisted reclamation. Lupin and barley were planted, but these would not hold the sand. Grass seed was then imported from France, which proved its efficiency at once. The seabent grass, which flourishes so extensively along the European Coast, was also used with gratifying success. This grass required little moisture and no manure, but it was a wonderful catcher and holder of the sand. With its aid, the drifting sands were held in check until the Monterey cypress and other branches of the pine family were able to lend their assistance in holding down the land. In due time the meadows were sown with Kentucky blue grass, and on the hillside madrone, manzanita, laurel and other native trees took hold.

Today, there is little evidence of this early struggle. Shrubs, hedges and trees have been planted with such cleverness that Nature herself must sometimes be deceived into thinking that she put them there. Palm and pepper trees do not dominate the scene, as they do in southern California. The eucalyptus tree—that queer, independent giant, which grows by leaps and bounds and sheds its leaves whenever it feels like it, instead of waiting for a definite season—is, of course, much in evidence, but so are huge-leaved sycamores and poplars and silver maples.

Stretching in an irregular line across the park from northeast to southwest, is a chain of lakes, which add marvelously to the charm of the landscape. So gently molded are the shore curves, so irregular the inlets, and so thickly wooded the islands in some of the lakes that no one would dream they had been first designed on paper and brought into being by landscape engineers.

"Work on the largest lake," explained Mr. McLaren in discussing the lake chain, "required the excavation and removal of 38,000 cubic yards of material, and the deposit of the earth and sand in mounds and ridges 200 feet from the water line."

Along the margin of this lake there is a wide, smooth and extremely popular driveway. A special Lovers' Lane has been provided in the park, but the lovers, with their usual talent for finding soulful scenery, prefer this driveway instead. In the evening it is crowded with silent, motionless cars, apparently hypnotized by the view of the light on the water is inspiring, and the seven little islands floating on the surface of the lake bearing tall birches and pine trees, with an undergrowth of rhododendron, ferns and alders, create an enchanting atmosphere.

Beneficiary of Rich Men

Golden Gate Park has long been the special darling of San Franciscan philanthropists. Because it is so beautiful, perhaps, every millionaire of any consequence has wanted to have his name emblazoned there. The great center of popular interest, for instance, is the Temple of Music in Concert Valley, which was given to the park by the late Claus Spreckles, known as the Sugar King. It is in the Italian Renaissance design, the chief material used being Colusa sandstone of an agreeable light color and of great hardness. The central structure has a frontage of 55 feet, is 70 feet high and is flanked on either side by Corinthian columns. It contains a large, semi-circular niche or band stand, with a capacity of 100 musicians. Extending from the Corinthian columns on each side are colonnades 52 feet high and 15 feet wide, each colonnade being supported by 16 Ionic columns.

In front of this temple thousands of people sit on Sundays and holidays to listen to band concerts. The seats are arranged in rows under a heavy canopy of foliage of short sycamore trees, whose branches have been clipped in the shape of wide umbrellas.

The dedication of the temple to the city was the occasion of a seething torrent of eloquence on the part of the accepting public. Public speakers struggled for adjectives that would do proper justice to the gift. "He who gave this structure to the people has builded for himself an enduring monument," began one address—and ended: "From the tombs of Nippon and Nineveh, from Egyptian pyramids, from every carved image and monumental pile the world over, from shrines that tell where saints have suffered and where the light of royalty has risen in palaces and set in sarcophagus and cenotaph; from the grave of Adam to the latest monument... all add their testimony to the irresistible desire of man to live though he be dead."

The Park Museum

Not far from the Temple of Music in the park is the Golden Gate Museum—the gift of Mr. H. de Young of the San Francisco Chronicle. This building, which was the Fine Arts Building of the Midwinter Fair in 1894, was bought by Mr. de Young, filled by him with a number of valuable specimens and placed in the trust of the Board of Park Commissioners. When the reporter visited the park the other day, the museum was in the process of a much-needed enlargement, and exhibits were being moved from one room to another, some concealed by a fresh partition, others so that it was impossible to do them full justice. The Oriental collection, however, which was polite enough to remain where it was, appeared to be astonishingly fine.

Not all of the philanthropists building enduring monuments in the park have chosen masonry as their material. One of them is represented by a waterfall, known as Huntington Falls. This was given by Mr. Collis P. Huntington, but Park Commissioner W. W. Stow also deserves credit for it was his idea to build a cascade from Strawberry Hill to one of the park lakes, and it was he who persuaded Mr. Huntington to provide the necessary $25,000.

The Children's Playground in the park, which has everything ever invented in the way of childish recreation—swings, merry-go-rounds, May-poles, donkey rides, goat carts, slides and candy stores—is also the unique gift of a San Franciscan philanthropist, William Sharon, who left $50,000 to the park in his will filed in 1887. Mr. Sharon did not stipulate how the amount was to be used, and at first the trustees of the estate were inclined to insist upon a massive arch or gateway, but they allowed themselves to be persuaded by some of the commissioners into a memorial playground for little people.

One of the nicest features of Golden Gate Park is that it is so modernly practical as well as beautiful. It is a real playground for the people. It has a zoological collection of tremendous interest, including buffalo and elk paddocks and a very fine wild fowl pond; and when weary and footsore from pursuing wild animal life, there are rest and tea to be had in a quaint, little Japanese tea garden. Then there is the joy and pride of all San Franciscans—the park stadium, famous in park circles all over the world. It is a huge oval, embracing 30 acres and containing a race track, a running track, a bicycle track, spaces for hammer throwing, pole vaulting and jumping; a basketball court and six football fields, and a grandstand with seats for 100,000 on-lookers.

And lastly there is the Pacific Ocean, basking at the shores of the park and providing it with an ever-changing background—the only thing in the park that the park commissioners have not been able to improve.

FOR DAD

"never mind what he WANTS—here are the things he NEEDS"

Dad is so used to giving that standing in the receiving line is just a little out of his line.

That's why he "never wants anything for Christmas"—when he really needs everything—and—

That's the Reason we are devoting this appeal to rooting for DAD—because he is too bashful to blow his own horn.

We're blowing it for him—and it's an ill wind that blows no good—for in the same breath we are telling you what Dad would tell you—if he only had the courage.

A House Coat would hit him right where he lives.

A Sweater Coat and he wouldn't mind the snow shovel.

Fur lined Gloves to keep out neuritis.

A Velour Hat Mother always wanted him to have one.

A Bath Robe he is tired of his old one.

Q. What is larger, the gray or red squirrel? O. H.

A. The red squirrel is a species only eight inches long, not including the tail. The common Eastern species of the gray squirrel is usually about ten inches long—besides the somewhat longer tail. The Virginia fox squirrel is a bright red color and is larger than the gray squirrel.

Q. A man in a lecture used the expression "where the Whangdoodle crieth for his first born." Where can this phrase be found, and what is a whangdoodle? G. H. M.

A. The whangdoodle is a fictitious animal, whose characteristics have never been adequately described. The line reads "where the lion roareth and the whangdoodle mourneth for his first born," and is from a recitation of "The Harp of a Thousand Strings," published anonymously but attributed to W. T. Brannan.

Q. Is there any set period that a person must have been dead before being canonized? W. S.

A. A person must have been dead at least fifty years before canonization occurs.

Q. Why does cotton thread twist tighter while sewing and silk thread lose its twist? G. A. M.

A. Cotton is known as knitting twist and is made up of three cords each containing two strands. Silk is known as crochet twist and is made up of three strands or cords. Cotton and silk have opposite twists. An occasional slight turning of the needle while sewing, having ascertained the direction which will maintain the proper twist, is a simple remedy.

Q. Could you help us find a use for the waste of broom-corn in making brooms? C. V. H.

A. Broom-corn stalk is suitable, so far as quality and yield pulp is concerned, for use in paper making. It reduces the pulp rapidly and with a small consumption of steam and chemicals. The most serious disadvantage is the limited production of the raw material, the total of which does not amount to more than 1,000 for the entire United States.

Q. Has wild sumac any value? C. L. A.

A. The Department of Agriculture says that sumac has long been used in the tanning of leather and in dyeing fabrics. The greater part of American sumac gathered has been used in dyeing cotton goods. Immense quantities, however, have remained ungathered and there is room for development of an organized sumac industry in this country.

Q. Please give a recipe for horehound candy? M. H. C.

A. Take 2 cupsful of brown sugar, one cupful of corn syrup, and one half teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Pour over this the horehound liquid made by steeping 3 ounces of dried horehound in one pint of hot water. Boil down to a cupful before adding to sugar. If you do not wish it to be so strong of horehound do not use so much. Boil to the hard crack stage or about 30 degrees. Pour into a buttered pan. Mark deeply into squares while still warm.

Q. What state was first to decide upon "the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November" for election day? F. K.

A. New York claims this distinction, having fixed upon this time in the year 1841.

Q. Have the farmers made large profits during the period of high prices? G. C.

A. The Department of Agriculture says that a farm survey shows that comparatively few farmers have made large profits in the past few years. The average return on investment increased from about 4½ per cent to about 7 per cent.

Q. Is there to be a transcontinental airplane race from New York to Los Angeles this winter? A. S.

A. The Aero Club of America says that there will be such a race this winter from New York via Washington, Atlanta, New Orleans, Texas, Arizona, New Mexico to Los Angeles.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

If you find you are getting into a rut and serving the same combination of foods day after day, hunt around in your mind for a remedy. Cooking becomes uninteresting and monotonous for the most enthusiastic housekeeper at times, and it may not be the fault of any condition except the rut.

Try serving a perfectly new dish two or three times a week. One might try a different meat course. Another might concoct a departure in the way of dessert. Experiment with a salad. Vary the vegetables. Make a game of the planning of meals and see how many kinds of food there are within reach of your pocketbook.

Menu for Tomorrow

My Own Recipes
If you always serve plain orange juice, grape-juice added to the orange is something different. Also a teaspoonful of lemon juice put in each glass improves the taste. Lemon juice is said to have approximately the same medicinal properties as quinine.

Of course this means that the habitual use of lemon in salad and drinks and desserts helps keep a body in fit condition.

TRIPLE FRITTERS
1 1/2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-3 teaspoon salt
paprika
1/2 cup milk
1 egg
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Wash tripe and cut in pieces about 1/4 inch square. Simmer in water to cover for 20 minutes or until tender. Drain and wipe dry as possible, sprinkle with salt and pepper, brush over with melted butter and put in batter. Drop by spoonfuls into hot deep fat and drain on brown paper. Serve with lemon cut in quarter and chili sauce. To make batter, mix and sift dry ingredients. Stir in milk making batter perfectly smooth. Add egg well beaten. Add lemon juice.

HAM BAKED IN CIDER
1 slice ham cut 3 inches thick
1 teaspoon ground cloves
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon pepper
cider to cover or more than half cover
Trim off superfluous fat. Boil 30 minutes and drain. Put in roaster and sprinkle with spices. Pour over cider. Cover tightly and bake in a slow oven for 2 hours.

IMPROMPTU "ACTORS" ENTERTAIN AT CHAPEL

A clever "stunt" was staged in chapel at Lawrence college Friday morning, when three of the greatest plays, Macbeth, "Liza Caught in the Ice", and Romeo and Juliet were presented before the student body by a select group of "stars." Norbert Roeder, Milwaukee, acted as hypnotist, and selected from the audience the people to play certain characters. Carl Windesheim, Kenosha; Miss Eunice Slatengren, Edwin Johnson, Milwaukee; and Miss Marie Puchner, Wittenberg, took leading roles. After the stunt, Mr. Roeder announced the plays which will be presented by the dramatic action class at Lawrence chapel Tuesday evening. One of the features of the entertainment will be a play, "Why The Chimes Rang", an impressive medieval selection in which music has an important part. Miss Gertrude Graves is directing the music for the play. In addition to the Christmas play, Miss Alice Dillon, a student of Prof. F. W. Orr, will give a reading, and several students will present a short sketch, entitled, "A Pair of Lunatics".

Washington — Business detained Senator Don Manuel C. Telles, secretary of the Mexican embassy here, on the day set for his marriage to Dona Emilia Benoit. ## PETITION BLOCKS 10 CENT CAR FARE

Railroad Commission to Make Another Investigation in Green Bay.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison, Wis.—A petition filed late Thursday evening with the Railroad Commission caused a holding up of the 10 cent street car fare in Green Bay and an order calling for a public hearing to be held Tuesday, December 14, when Carl D. Jackson, chairman of the commission will go to Green Bay personally to look into the matter.

The petition, which is signed by Senator Timothy Burke, John A. K.

tell, Ben Abrahamson, M. Roseman and Carl P. Young, claims that the new rates just authorized by the commission this week are unjust and excessive. It declares that the petitioners are informed that the rates were ordered by the Commission as the result of a stipulation signed by certain city officials and the Wisconsin Public Service company and that because of the stipulation the usual public hearing was not held on the petition of the company for authority to increase rates.

Whether or not there is any local politics behind the petition is not known to the Commission, although such has been intimated. The Commission upon receipt of the petition immediately ordered the new rates held up pending a public hearing when the matter will be thoroughly gone into and the case decided upon its merits, irrespective of the stipulation.

NO QUICK ACTION ON LUSK PARDON

Grace Lusk's Aged Father is in Madison in Effort to Secure Freedom.

Madison—Dr. Lusk, aged father of Grace Lusk, expects the women of Wisconsin to secure the release of his daughter from the state prison where she is serving a 19 year sentence for the murder of Mrs. David Roberts, Waukesha, wife of her paramour, Dr. Lusk, who has aged a great deal in the last three years, came to Madison this week from his little home in Mosinee, to personally look after his daughter's interests.

Although the formal application for her pardon, which had been presented to Governor Philipp at the behest of Dr. Lusk by Attorney George Leight, of Wausau was withdrawn on Monday, it became known here during Dr. Lusk's visit to the capital that petitions similar to the two circulated in Sparta and Waukesha and which have already been filed with the governor, will soon be placed in circulation throughout the state by women who are interested in securing executive clemency for the former school teacher.

Dr. Lusk called at the office of the State Board of Control in an effort to ascertain the attitude of the members of the board on the application for pardon. He was informed the board has no power to grant pardons, only to parole prisoners under certain conditions, and that it never expresses its opinion on a pardon application unless that is requested by the governor and then only to the executive himself.

Within the last six weeks the governor's office has received hundreds of not thousands of letters from all over the state praying for executive clemency for Miss Lusk. It is safe to state, however, that no action will be taken on the petitions until a formal application for pardon is again filed, and then only after the regular public hearing.

1,000 SECURITIES SCANNED BY BOARD

Blue Sky Commission Grants
769 Permits to Do Business in State.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison, Wis.—From Aug. 1, 1919, when the new "Blue Sky" law went into effect, to June 30, 1920, the securities division of the Railroad Commission received 1,005 applications for permits to do business in Wisconsin, according to the annual report just filed with Gov. E. L. Philipp. Of these 769 permits were issued, 65 applications were denied or withdrawn, 123 were examined on which final action had not been taken and 43 had not been examined. Quite a number of permits were later suspended for violations of the law or the regulations of the commission but were afterwards reinstated, while six permits were cancelled.

The law divides the securities subject to regulation into two classes—A and B. The Class A securities are those which, by reason of the past earnings of the company or the value of the land and buildings pledged as security therefor, give reasonable assurance of return of principal and payment of the stipulated interest or dividends. Class B securities embrace all other securities subject to the law, and are termed "Speculative securities."

In the first eleven months under the new law, covered by the report, securities authorized by the commission in each class totaled more than $250,000,000, with over 300,000 shares of stock without par value. Bonds authorized were $77,456,215 in Class A, and $2,323,000 in Class B. Stocks issued authorized were $109,740,390 with 223,938 shares of non-par value in Class A, and $40,317,672 with 93,763 shares of non-par value. Attention is called to the fact that the amount of securities authorized does not represent the actual amount to be offered in this state. The law limits the fee to $200 and in many instances the maximum fee is paid and the entire issue qualified although the applicant may contemplate selling in this state only a small portion of the issue.

The fees received have been more than sufficient to pay for the operations of the law, although attention is called to the fact that the report covers a period of unusual activity in business development and expansion, which has since slackened to a marked degree. The receipts for the 11 months were $58,179.12 while the expenses were only $15,810.89. However the expenses have necessarily increased since then. The report states it may be advisable to change the method of determining fees but that the fees should not be reduced.

WOULD PROHIBIT SALOON SCREENS

Prominent W. C. T. U. Leader Objects to Curtains in Saloon Windows.

A movement to force Appleton "saloon" keepers to remove curtains and screens from their windows has been started by one of the most prominent leaders of the Women's Christian Temperance movement in Outagamie county. This woman is acting on her own responsibility in this matter, she said. It is probable the police department will be asked to cooperate in the movement.

This woman said that curtains have been removed from saloons in many other cities and that in some places this action was taken before the passage of the eighteenth amendment.

She said it would be a good step to take in making Appleton a "clean city." She felt that strangers coming to Appleton would not know whether prohibition is effective or not with the screens up.

"If the men in the saloons are not gambling, why do they want to be shielded?"

"People might argue that we have curtains on our windows in our

PAPER COMPANY GIVES UP PLANS FOR SAWMILL

The work of converting one of its warehouses into a saw mill has been abandoned by the Patten Paper company due partially to the condition of the lumber market and partially to plans which the company has not yet announced.

The building had been considerably enlarged and strengthened and the machinery was being placed at the time the work ceased. It was the original intention of the company to remove the hub and spoke machinery to the new location, but the factory will remain where it is.

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Start treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.
However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

WEDNESDAY WAS BANNER DAY FOR LOCAL STORES

Merchants quite generally concede that Wednesday was the banner shopping day so far this season. On account of it being a church holiday the city was well filled with people from all over the county and from Calumet county. The stores were crowded, particularly in the afternoon. Because automobiles are generally used, snow is no longer needed for Christmas shopping and would be more of a handicap than advantage.

Buck said that it was a pleasure for him to work with the team, and that he had never coached more agreeable men. He said that what had been accomplished was possible through the ability of Coach McChesney to keep the members of the team together and to get them to work hard. In a few well chosen words he expressed his appreciation for the gift and said he would cherish it as one of his most treasured possessions.

J. E. Hutchins of Chicago, formerly of Appleton was here Thursday for the purpose of taking his mother, who was recently injured in an automobile accident, home with him.

August Brandt has returned from several days' business trip to Milwaukee.

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds
as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard-plaster burned and blistered while it acted. Get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

Musterole does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister the tenderest skin.

Gently massage Musterole in with the finger-tips. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears. Use Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

The Rev. Perry Miller, 65 years old, former superintendent of the Appleton district of the Methodist church, and a member of the board of trustees of Lawrence college, is dead at his home in Janesville. Funeral services will be held Saturday from the late residence and burial will be in Milton. It is probable that Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence, will preach the funeral sermon.

Mr. Miller had served 37 years in the Methodist ministry and was superintendent of the Janesville district of the Methodist church at the time of his death. He was stationed here as superintendent 12 years ago. His successor was the Rev. J. H. Tippet. Mr. Miller has been pastor of churches in Waupaca, Marinette, Kenosha and Milwaukee.

At the time of his death he was director of Green alby Deaconess hospital; trustee of Wesley hospital, Chicago.

Railroad Man Gives Good Advice

Several years ago I was under treatment of a stomach specialist for months. 3 weeks of which were spent in a hospital. Another stomach specialist told me I had gull stones and that an operation was necessary. I did not want to have this. I lost 45 lbs. in weight. Talking with a brakeman one day he told me of Malt's Wonderful Remedy and since taking it I have gained 16 lbs. and am feeling fine. I am advising others to try it. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. ## BADGER WOMEN WANT U. S. LAW ADOPTED

Federal Act for Disabled Workers Has Not Been Adopted in Wisconsin.

Women of many states are enjoying compensation for injuries or disability under the federal industrial rehabilitation act approved by the president last June. Wisconsin has not approved it by legislative action and women of Appleton and other cities are therefore seriously considering a movement to cause its application here.

The government's idea in passing the act was to provide for injured workers in industry the same as it did for disabled soldiers. Those whose means of livelihood is taken away through injury will be taught another vocation so they can be returned to civil employment again.

The act works out especially well for women. They need not be beneficiaries of the workmen's compensation laws. A woman will be entitled to the benefits of the law whether she received her injury while employed or in the discharge of her home duties.

Every dollar of federal money allotted for this compensation or vocational training must be matched by at least another dollar from the state. The state must cover the provisions of the act through legislative authority. The act has been adopted by Minnesota, New York, North Dakota, Iowa, Oregon, Nevada, Arizona, Arkansas, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Delaware.

STATE GRANGE WOULD ENFORCE LIQUOR LAWS

Several Outagamie county farmers were at Neenah to attend the convention of the Wisconsin state grange, which opened Tuesday afternoon and closed Thursday. About 150 delegates were in attendance.

Mayor E. C. Arneemann welcomed the Grangersmen. Some of the speakers were: Herman Holm, state master, and Congressman-elect J. C. Ketchum, master of the Michigan State Grange.

Among other business matters, the grange adopted resolutions favoring rigid enforcement of the 18th amendment and urging the 1921 state legislature to enact an enforcement code that will adequately carry out the law. The resolutions also pledged support to the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league in its law enforcement campaign.

WANTS THRU CARS FROM FONDY TO BAY

Railroad Commissioner Believes Interurban Cars Should Run All the Way.

Through interurban service from Fond du Lac to Green Bay was recommended in a letter mailed Thursday by John H. Allen, member of the state railroad commission, to Harry Ellis, general manager of the Eastern Wisconsin Electric company, John L. Beggs, president of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company, and Clement C. Smith, president of the Wisconsin Public Service company.

The Eastern Wisconsin Electric company operates interurban service from Fond du Lac to Oshkosh and from Oshkosh to Neenah; the Beggs line operates interurban cars from Neenah through Menasha and Appleton to Kaukauna; and the Smith line operates between Kaukauna and Green Bay.

That through cars, carrying both passengers and express would not only greatly improve the service but become a paying investment for the three companies is the belief of Commissioner Allen. It would only be necessary to reconstruct a switch around a corner in Neenah to connect the two lines there and extend the lines in Kaukauna less than one block for the physical connection.

The cars would probably run on an hourly schedule or at least every two hours on the through run with direct connections for the hourly cars.

Commissioner Allen heard the testimony on the application of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company for authority to increase its gas electric and street car rates a few weeks ago.

The Stage

Bringing Up Father

The many lovers of laugh-provoking musical comedy will be delighted to learn that "Bringing Up Father at the Seashore" is the attraction announced at the Appleton Theatre, Dec. 15. This is an entirely new offering, and as the title indicates, is based on the famous cartoons of George McManus. Gus Hill, as usual, is sponsor for the production which is under his personal direction and which will be presented after the "Bill Standard" of excellence and perfection. In this latest conception of song, kindness, happiness, scenic beauty and melody, the popular newspaper comics will be seen in a series of laugh-provoking complications, situations and surprises. Of course, the fundamental idea, as we might chronicle in advance, is the efforts of the Mahoney clan to get "Father" to the seashore. However, "Mother," the guiding genius of the Mahoney household, generally accomplishes her purpose. How she succeeds is the subject of a pleasant, amusing and side-splitting comedy.

FORM ORGANIZATION TO LESSEN RAILWAY CLAIMS

W. B. Basing, agent of the Chicago and Northwestern railway, has been named a member of a claim prevention bureau organized on the northern Wisconsin division. Its aim is to create better freight service and incidentally more customers.

Bureaus have been organized on every division of the road in order to lessen the occasion for making claims against the road. It means better carrying of freight and more careful handling and supervision.

The members of the committee are: F. D. Pendell, Fond du Lac, chairman; A. A. Zatterburg, travelling inspector; F. E. Langer, Fond du Lac station agent; A. L. Fisher, Madison traffic agent; L. E. Bruner, Fond du Lac, train master; J. S. Rice, assistant superintendent; W. C. Johnson, supervisor claim prevention bureau; Chicago; P. E. Miller, Fond du Lac yardmaster; C. H. Murphy, freight conductor; D. E. Curtis, travelling freight agent; W. B. Basing, agent Appleton; George Lancott, Oshkosh freight house foreman; A. E. Wurl, Kaukauna, master car builder; J. W. Blue, district special agent; Car Krause, secretary.

GRAY HAIR BECOMES DARK AND BEAUTIFUL

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and sulphur, properly compounded brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and trouble some.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Majority Of Greeks Don't Want King Tino

Appleton Greeks Say Only a Few of Their Countrymen Voted in Plebiscite.

"What seventy-five per cent of the people in Greece want is a government like that of the United States," said Parnes Demos, proprietor of the Princess, in discussing the political situation of his native country.

"The election of former King Constantine does not express the wishes of the people for the reason that the majority did not participate in the election and those that did were not permitted to vote according to their convictions."

Mr. Demos said that former premier Venizelos was the most popular leader in Greece and that the masses of the people favored the principles advocated by him and were greatly disappointed at his resignation as premier. The people of "New Greece" are among his strongest supporters.

All Want Republic
"What does any country want of a king in this modern age?" said Mr. Demos. "The Greeks in the United States are almost unanimously in favor of a republican form of government for their native country and will support such a movement. The unrest in Greece will continue until there is a change."

Mr. Demos left Greece for the United States sixteen years ago. His parents still reside there as well as two sisters and three brothers one of whom is an officer in the army. He also has two brothers in the United States.

One of Mr. Demos' greatest objections to a monarchy is the cost. "The people, he said, 'were taxed to death to keep up the royal splendor which would be done away with under a republican form of government.'" He said, however, that the people were not suffering from the effects of the war nearly as much as those of some of the other European countries.

Only a Few Voted
John Notras, proprietor of the Palace, also stated that the result of the recent election did not express the wishes of the people as only 800,000 persons voted out of a population of 5,000,000. "Venizelos supporters," he said, "did not participate in the election. The total number of votes cast for the return of former King Constantine was 500,000."

Mr. Notras said that he had been in the United States for twenty years and that he had paid very little attention to conditions in his native country. His mother still resides there as well as four brothers and two sisters, but they have very little to say about the political situation.

Lost Interest in Greece
George Noiras, who is associated in business with his brother, returned to Greece at the opening of the Balkan war in 1912 and remained in the army the greater part of the time until last May, when he returned to Appleton. His father died of flu a short time before he returned.

George Katsulas stated that he had been in this country for so many years that he did not try to keep in touch with conditions in his native country and that his associates had followed the same policy.

COLLEGE ORATORS COMPETE TONIGHT

Prizes Offered to Best Orators and to the "Peppiest" Classes.

The annual inter class oratorical contest at Lawrence College is scheduled for Friday evening, when two awards will be made for demonstrations of class "pep," a banner to the class having the greatest class spirit, and a shield to the class having the best decorations. The chapel will be divided into sections, each class to have a section.

The interclass oratorical contest is the biggest event in oratory during the whole year. Two representatives from each of the three upper classes will deliver orations in competition for the two prizes. The winner of the first place will receive $50, which is awarded by F. F. Wettengel, and a prize of $30 will be given the winner of the second place. In addition, the winners are to have their names engraved on a loving cup.

As a feature of the demonstrations each class will present an original stunt. The students will be given an opportunity to show their spirit from 7:45 until eight o'clock. A special committee of judges will pick the winners. Only freshmen, sophomores and juniors will compete for the award in class decorations, but all four classes will be eligible to the one for class spirit. This will be judged on the basis of attendance, stunts, songs, yells and class courtesy.

POLAND CHINA BREEDERS TO HOLD FALL FESTIVAL

Breeders of Poland China swine will have a chance to become closely acquainted with each other at the fall festival of the county association. The date has been definitely set for Monday evening, December 20 at Hortonville.

The officers will try to engender a spirit of good fellowship so that the association will be enthused to greater activity. They have dropped many of the more serious matters for the evening to let a better acquaintance prevail. Each member has been asked to bring his family.

The event will open with a oyster supper served by a committee headed by Mrs. Frank Winklerwerder and Mrs. John Dettensek. An attractive program will follow. Among those who plan to attend and help make the evening interesting are Prof. M. H. Scott, Madison, hog expert of the college of agriculture, and Paul O. Nyhus, farm agent of the First National bank.

CITY DAD "TAGGED" BREAKING AUTO RULE

22 TRY FOR POSITIONS ON COLLEGE DEBATE TEAM

The Lawrence college debate teams will be chosen after the try outs which will be on the afternoon of Dec. 14. Twenty-two men have signed up and Prof. Orr is confident that Lawrence will have a good team, although only one veteran has returned.

The question for debate this year is "Resolved that the United States should pass the necessary laws to exclude Japanese immigrants." From the general topic is five different issues have been drawn to serve as questions for tryouts.

Meetings are held twice a week for those interested in the debates, at which there is a general discussion on various issues of the question.

Mrs. C. Ebben of Little Chute, was a business visitor here Wednesday.

Mrs. Henry Timmers of Little Chute called here on business Wednesday.

HOLSTEIN MEN TO SHAPE PROGRAM

The association expects to make this meeting the starting point of one of the biggest years in its history.

CALF CLUB MEMBERSHIP NEARLY REACHES GOAL

Enrollment in the boys' and girls' calf club conducted by the First National bank have reached 33. The goal is 35, which means that the club will be completed in a day or two.

It is the plan of Walter Weickert of the Outagamie County Holstein Breeders' association, and Paul O. Nyhus, farm agent of the bank, to buy the pure bred Holstein calves December 17 and 18. They will go to Dodge county first because of the many animals of good size and breed that may be found there.

The Guernsey calves will be purchased a day or two later. Every one in the club will have his or her calf by January 1. A group of awards will probably be announced for those who produce the best calves.

IN THIS PART OF THE STATE TO FOSTER BETTER DAIRYING.

It is said that cows, infected with tuberculosis, are sold at almost every auction and that some action will probably be taken to prevent this in the future. Much other constructive work is under contemplation by the officers.

The morning session will be held at the court house. The meeting will adjourn at noon for a banquet at the Northwestern house and it is possible that the afternoon session will be held there. Every Holstein breeder in the county will be urged to attend.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting tired of hearing and fear Catarrh of the Ears, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmit (de-le strength), and add to it 4 pi of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Closed nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrh of the Ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

SAME FORMS FOR ALL INSURANCES

Thomas P. Nelson Writes Book for State on Standard Provisions.

Madison—For the purpose of standardizing the forms of contract of insurance companies a book on "Health and Accident Insurance Under the Standard Provisions Law," has been published by Thomas P. Nelson, health and accident policy examiner of the Wisconsin insurance department.

The present forms of many companies are worded in such a way as to make an unsatisfactory insurance contract, and one that does not comply with the spirit of the law, it was declared. Twelve complaints were said to have recently been registered by those who were dissatisfied with their health and accident policy settlement, to one for all other forms of insurance combined.

The central thought of the book is that the Standard Provisions Law must be interpreted and construed in the light of the principles of insurance. Mr. Nelson said. "The principles of insurance are as essential to successful organization and operation of an insurance business as the multiplication table is to the solution of mathematical problems."

PUT HIS FRIEND BACK ON HIS FEET

Then He Began Taking Tanlac Himself and is Now Enjoying Fine Health

"Before I got hold of Tanlac I was in such a bad fix I couldn't eat a thing without suffering afterwards, but that medicine has fixed me up so that now I can eat anything and never have a particle of indigestion," said John G. Woelky, of 1014 West 24th St., Milwaukee, Wis.

"Whatever I ate used to lie in my stomach like a lump of lead, and often gas formed so bad at night I had to get up and walk the floor in order to get my breath. The very sight of food nauseated me and often I could not retain what little I did force myself to eat."

"I also had dull pains across the small of my back, and if I tried to lift anything it felt like my back would break in two. I was little better than a physical and nervous wreck and had to quit my job and take on lighter work."

"One of the men who worked with me was in mighty bad shape, and when I saw how Tanlac fixed him up so that he was like a new man, I decided to give it a try-out. In a short time I had an appetite like a wolf and could eat anything without ever being troubled with nausea or gas."

"I no longer have any trouble with my back, my nerves are steady and strong and I sleep like a log. I have gained in weight and am so much stronger that no kind of work is too hard to me."

ALLEGED MURDERER OF MOTHER IS ON TRIAL

Stevens Point—John Buza, town of Carson farmer, is on trial in Circuit court for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Anna Buza, whose mutilated body was found in the Buza home in Carson on Jan. 25, 1920.

According to evidence brought out at the preliminary examination last February, Buza had been drinking an alcoholic concoction of his own mixture on the night prior to his mother's death. The body of his mother, severely bruised, was found at the foot of a stairway leading to the second floor of the house and there was a small pool of blood on the first step. A piece of stove wood, to which clung shreds of hair similar to that of the dead woman, was found in the house.

Doctors who made a post mortem examination of Mrs. Buza's body testified that her death might have been due to the wounds she received, supplemented by alcoholism. They said that an examination of her stomach revealed traces of alcohol. A coroner's jury returned a verdict holding that the circumstances surrounding Mrs. Buza's death were such as to indicate that murder or manslaughter had been committed. Buza has been out on bail.

Bob Explains the Presence of Katherine Miller's Handkerchief

The shreds of Katherine Miller's lovely handkerchief had disappeared from my husband's chiffonier, but it was several days before he referred to the thing. One morning, instead of reading the headlines of the news columns, according to his custom, he put his paper aside and turned to me with:

"Jane, you think I owe you an explanation, I suppose?"

"About what?" I exclaimed, for indeed I felt that my husband owed me several explanations, and I was curious to discover which seemed of the first importance to him.

"That handkerchief," was his reply. "As you like," I said, all a-flutter inside, but outwardly the picture of indifference, I hoped.

"Jane, it's mighty humiliating to a man to get caught up in woman's jealousies. It hurts me to have to explain: what's the matter with you lately, Jane?"

"Of course—blame me!" That rejoinder showed mighty poor judgment on my part, but it was genuinely feminine. "Don't you suppose it humiliates me to find fault with my husband? But, of course, what I think and what I feel doesn't interest you. We're off the subject? What do you care to tell me about that handkerchief?"

"When I found that you had torn it up, of course I guessed your thought, Jane."

"Well?"

"Well—you were wrong. Katherine never gave it to me—I never took it from her."

"You had it. You kept it. Ann's coon unearthed it in—"

"Let's skip the details. All I have to say is that I have had it ever since the night you set me to washing dishes with Katherine."

I opened my eyes. Why did I never succeed when I interfered between Bob and Katherine?

"I picked up the handkerchief in the pantry," Bob continued. "I slipped it into my pocket, and I intended to hand it to its owner. Something prevented. I forgot about it! Totally! For days! Until I found it—torn to tatters!"

"I suppose she dropped it on purpose," I contended.

"Now, Jane, you may twist this as you choose. I have given you all the facts in the case. Make what you can out of them. But see here! Couldn't I trail you through life by the handkerchiefs you drop? I guess women are all alike. Why, I've picked up a score of Katherine's handkerchiefs—"

My eyelids fell. Bob paused, knowing well what I was thinking.

"I've picked up mother's and Chrys', all my life. You're not fair to me, Jane," Bob protested. "Why, your jealousy is spoiling our home!"

"I admit that I'm jealous, Bob. I admit that I've no right to be so upset by what you consider a trivial incident. But—I am! And you know what I am like. If you cared—as you used to—wouldn't you be careful—not to hurt me? Why—why do you let me have an excuse for being jealous?"

"Why are you always looking for one? When we were married, we agreed to be pals, partners, chums and equals. How has it turned out? You are as jealous as the silliest little parasite—"

I rose from the breakfast table turned to my husband a level gaze, and spoke slowly:

"Bob, if you were not interested in another woman, you never would speak to me like that!"

MOVE TO PREVENT BUSINESS SLUMP

Mississippi Valley Association Seeks Underlying Cause of Depression.

An attempt to counteract the temporary destruction of confidence which has caused business stagnation and unemployment has been undertaken by the Mississippi Valley association. A referendum has been sent the chamber of commerce, which aims to get at the underlying causes of the present depression.

The Mississippi Valley association represents the interests of 27 states in a condition of mental and financial confidence.

These questions are contained in the referendum:

Do you believe the industrial and financial conditions of business in the United States to be basically sound?

How do you account for the present depression in business and for the public's attitude toward business?

What additional system of credits should be inaugurated (if any) to freely release money when urgently needed in our agricultural and industrial centers?

Do you think present market conditions are predicated wholly upon the law of supply and demand, and if not, what else is responsible?

What kinds of insidious and unfortunate propaganda have come to your attention, that would lead the public to erroneous conclusions with regard to market conditions and business generally?

Its officers are making a study through which it expects to unearth the supposed insidious propaganda which has disturbed commercial relations. The association finds that there is a steadily increasing unemployment of labor and great distress to farmers, manufacturers, merchants, bankers and all other enterprises.

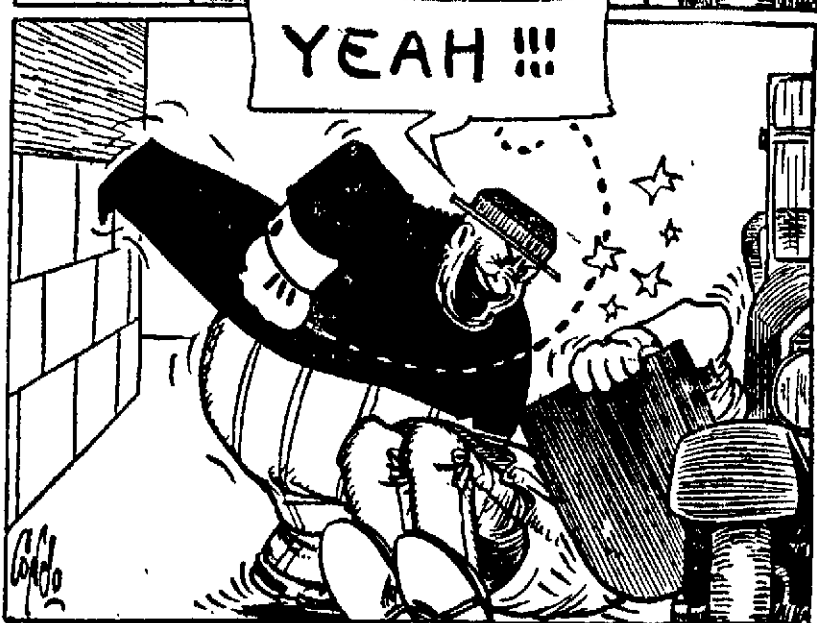

It is believed that the condition of the United States is sound and that all that is needed is a constructive program of thought and action which will show this to be true, and to establish

What sort of justified and constructive business propaganda should be given general publicity in these days of readjustment?

PRICES FORCED DOWN BY SELLING

Little Buying Power Is Shown in Trading on Chicago Exchange.

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago—A rush of selling orders caused a sharp decline in grain quotations on the Chicago board of trade today.

There was little buying power. Selling in December wheat was especially heavy. The market had practically no support after the exporters had filed their orders as there was little buying for investment purposes. Provisions also were lower.

December wheat after opening down 7 1/2 at $1.65, declined another 4 1/2. March wheat opened off 2 1/2 at $1.02 and lost an additional four.

December corn was off 2 1/2 at the opening, 72, and dropped 2 1/2 later. May corn after opening down 1 1/2 at 75, dropped 1 1/2 before the close. July corn was down 1/2 at the opening, 75 1/2, and dropped 2 1/2 later.

December oats opened off one at 47, and dropped another 1/2. May oats, off 1/2 at the opening, 51 1/2, lost an additional 1 1/2. July oats opened down 1 at 50 1/2 and dropped an additional one subsequently.

HEAVY BUYING SENDS STOCK PRICES WAY UP

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—The stock market closed today with a burst of buying which resulted in a sharp upturn.

The earlier trading was marked with big declines in leading stocks among them most of the oils and rails and steels.

The rails were attacked at the opening and with exception of Delaware Lackawanna and western which has called a meeting to devise a stock dividend, they dropped from two to four points.

The U. S. Steel corporation's unfiled orders showing a decrease had an unfavorable effect on other steels. U. S. Steel declined 1 1/2 points to 7 1/2, its lowest price in several years.

Midway Loco and United Fruit were down two points and American Wool on off four before the closing display of strength.

HEARS ORDER TO BURN IRISH HOMES

Former Member of Irish Constabulary Testified in Washington.

By United Press Leased Wire

Washington—British officers issued orders to burn and turn machine guns on the houses of all sympathizers with Irish freedom in a quiet district of Tipperary, Daniel F. Crowley, former member of the Royal Irish Constabulary, testified today before The Nation's unofficial commission on conditions in Ireland.

Crowley said he heard this order read last March by General Lucas, British commander of the district, and that he immediately resigned.

The witness next said he heard how "black and tan" police received orders to find and kill two Irish citizens who had criticized the military.

"The black and tans asked me where these two Irishmen lived," Crowley said.

"I refused to tell. The black and tans threatened to kill me. They said they would cut off the ears of these two Irishmen and bring them back to me to show them they had found them."

"Most of these black and tans were ex-convicts from England," he said.

P. J. Guilfoyle, an American citizen, of Pittsburg, testified that he saw British "black and tans" shoot up and burn Peakie, a village in county Clare where Guilfoyle recently visited his sister.

RUMELY'S FRIENDS SAY HE'S A FINE FELLOW

By United Press Leased Wire

New York—Three Irishmen men today testified their high regard for Dr. Edward A. Rumely, formerly publisher of the New York Evening Mail.

Presented as character witnesses in the prosecution of Rumely on charges of violating the trading with the enemy act, they were unanimous in endorsing his character and reliability.

Hugh Alcorn, government counsel, said today the prosecution had endeavored to bring Henry Ford to New York to testify in rebuttal.

The nature of Ford's possible testimony was announced.

Alcorn said an attempt was made to find Ford when the automobile manufacturer was in New York state on a vacation and that he was believed to be in California now.

Roy W. Howard, former president of the United Press, testified that in 1915 Rumely asked him to arrange to have the United Press bureau in Berlin file special wireless dispatches for the exclusive use of the New York Mail. Howard testified he refused to make an arrangement.

30,000 EXTRA MEN FOR HOLIDAY MAIL

Public Can Help Relieve Christmas Rush, Postal Officials Say.

By United Press Leased Wire

Washington—Thirty thousand extra mail carriers, clerks and helpers now are beginning night and day shifts to handle the biggest Christmas mail rush in the history of the post office.

This is in addition to approximately 300,000 regular postoffice department officials and employees, according to Superintendent Ryan, of the bureau of postoffices, today.

Postoffice officials began to plan to handle the rush at a series of conferences held here last October, Ryan said.

Divisional officials from every section of the country came here to make plans to put on something like 3,000 extra railway mail cars and thousands of extra auto trucks.

The public can put the finishing touches on the job by obeying two simple rules, said Ryan.

"These rules are:

1—Double wrap every package and place inside the name and address of

"COSMIC" COURTSHIP LATEST IN CHICAGO

By United Press Leased Wire

Chicago—A. Northwestern co-ed, who refuses to reveal her name, appealed to newspapers here today to help her find her affinity "M. J."

"M. J." met her in a movie. The co-ed's French heel caught on a nail and was ripped off, and "M. J." sitting behind her, offered to take the shoe out to be fixed while she watched the show. Before the picture was ended he returned with the shoe and disappeared.

Miss Hazel Albough, another co-ed, says the romantic co-ed has communicated with her affinity by "thought waves."

She says the cosmic courtship had reached the stage where he proposed and she accepted, but she doesn't know where to find him and they can't give each other their names and addresses.

The initials "M. J." were obtained from a fortune teller, Miss Albough said.

both sender and addressee. Then if the other wrapper becomes torn the postoffice clerks will know where to send the package without delay. It won't go to the dead letter office.

2—Mail early; the big rush comes in the week just preceding Christmas day.

Major Leagues Want Draft Law Restored

By Henry L. Farrell
By United Press Leased Wire
New York. — Restoration of the draft, an economical means of getting young blood into the major leagues, will be advocated here tomorrow when the delegations of the majors and minors get together.

The session is stated as a conference on a new national agreement to succeed the one that was discarded some time ago, but it will also act as the coronation of Judge K. M. Landis, the new dictator of baseball.

Garry Herrmann who once held the job that has been enlarged for Landis and who also penned the old national agreement, is here with his copy of the agreement that is said to put the minors on a fifty-fifty footing with the big time fellows.

A little matter of a hundred per cent increase in the price of "ivory" on the foot is thought to be the prize bait that the majors will dangle before the little fellows.

The draft price of the old defunct national agreement was $2,500. The majors, it is heard, are now ready to increase the rate per head to $5,000.

The American association and International league may balk at the proposition to get back to the draft plan. They are about half the works of the minors and their attitude is causing the magnates of the big time circuit most concern.

Raising ball players has become a very profitable pastime since the draft ceased to allow the majors a full harvest at bargain rates and it may take a lot of convincing talk about the necessities in the baseball crisis to get the minors back into an agreement restoring the draft.

The tail enders of the International league, which by the way is divided on the annual issue of Dave Fulton, want the draft restored to chop off the list of the leaders a lot of fine talent with top prices that is making the league races a set-up for Baltimore.

TRIPLE TIE IN RACE FOR CUE CHAMPIONSHIP

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Final play for the world's three cushion billiard championship will be held today when the three leaders will play off a triple tie.

Champion Bob Cannell came from behind in his match with Johnny Layton, of St. Louis last night and put the series in a triple tie, by beating Layton, 75 to 53.

A win by Layton would have given the St. Louis shark the championship. Today Layton will play Clarence Jackson, of Kansas City, who is tied with Layton and Cannell for the lead. Layton will also meet Cannell tonight.

Augie Kieckhefer, of Chicago, lost his third straight game when Jackson defeated him, 75 to 70.

It is about like having a gym on his own private lot.

Jack in Fine Shape

The champion trains, too, when he trains. Al Reich, Clay Turner, Dan O'Dowd, Marty Farrell and Irish Pat Kline are up on the Granite State every afternoon, accepting his rough treatment at so much per treatment and if that isn't earning the money, then Jesse James was a reformer. After boxing from eight to twelve swift rounds, Jack dives into his sweaters and sets off up the hill to Central park for about five miles on the road to preserve his wind. He is in fine shape but weighs 180, which is five pounds more than he weighed against Willard. At the rainside, less than a week hence, Jack figures to weigh about 185.

At $5 to $25 Tex Rickard expects to fill Madison Square garden for this fight, but any pre-estimate of the receipts might look foolish compared to the final box office returns. Anyway, the "takes" will be the biggest since prize fighting reopened in New York and there have been two houses of $30,000 each in that time.

COLLEGE WRESTLING BOUTS ARE POSTPONED

The Lawrence College school wrestling championships and inter-class tournament, which was scheduled for this evening, has been postponed until next Wednesday evening, December 15 because of the conflict in dates with the school oratorical contest. The public is invited to attend this meet and no admission will be charged.

One more bout in the semi-finals remains undecided. Kubitz and Rose are to wrestle to see which one shall oppose Thomas in the finals of the 155 pound class. Kubitz is the favorite to win this bout but Rose is a good man and may spring a surprise.

The freshmen have the edge to win the tournament but both the Sophomore and Junior classes have a chance of noosing the yearlings out in the final count. The following men have qualified for the finals, Sullivan, sophomore, and Reindell, freshman, in the 125 pound class; Alexander, junior, and Wallschlag, freshman, in the 135 pound class; Mark Anderson, sophomore, and Lester Anderson, freshman, in the 145 pound class; Strong and Biddick, freshmen, in the heavyweight class. Five points are awarded the winners of first place and three points to the winners of second place.

INTERLAKERS TO PLAY OSHKOSH QUINT HERE

Interlake basketball team will tackle its second out of town opponent next Saturday night when it lines up against the Paine Lumber company team at Armory G. The teams are said to be evenly matched and should put up a good game.

The pulpmen are going strong in the Inter-factory league, with only one loss to mar their record. They are now in second place, close behind the Kimberly-Clark quint.

The Paine team played a close game with the Ruoping squad of Fond du Lac, one of the best industrial teams in the state, a few days ago, indicating that the Sawdust City men know a few things about the game.

Two girls' teams from Appleton Woman's Club will play the preliminary game which is to start at 7:30 o'clock.

TREMAINE AND BURMAN CLASH IN CLEVELAND

Cleveland, Ohio.—Carl Tremaine, Cleveland bantam, will meet Joe Burman, Chicago, in a ten round bout here next Friday night, it was announced today by Matt Hinkel, fight promoter.

They are to weigh in at 120 pounds at three o'clock.

Joe Dawson, Milwaukee lightweight, and Bud Christiano, Chicago, will put on the ten round semi-final.

GIPP BETTER BUT IS NOT OUT OF DANGER

By United Press Leased Wire
South Bend, Ind.—George Gipp, Notre Dame football star, was reported resting easy early today.

Hospital authorities, however, were reticent concerning his chances for recovery.

Although blood tests have been made of several who volunteered to submit to an operation should the doctors decide on blood transfusion, the physicians stated that the famous athlete was too weak to withstand the operation at present.

Marine Victory Medals
Notice has been received here that marine veterans of the world war may receive victory medals from the Milwaukee or Green Bay recruiting stations. Certificates of discharge must be presented with applications.

Tone is developed scientifically. The Amplifier is built entirely of wood—especially chosen, seasoned and moulded. It connects directly with the tone arm.

There is NO CAST METAL throat on The Brunswick. So unnatural and metallic noises are absent.

Vocational Schools Demonstrate Value

Milwaukee Director Delivers Interesting Talk at Conference Here.

Wisconsin is the only state where the continuation school plan is working harmoniously and progressively," said R. L. Cooley, director of the central continuation school of Milwaukee. "The statement was made at a luncheon at Hotel Appleton for the delegates to the vocational school teachers' conference which is being held here."

"Think of Wisconsin's record," said Mr. Cooley. "Several years ago the work of our vocational schools was crude, imperfect, and subject to criticism. When we took some 200 workers out of the factories sneers were heard on all sides. People thought it was the most ridiculous thing they had ever heard of. But the workers came, the parents believed in the idea of their children learning something worth while, and the result of our work has been very gratifying."

"Now no one doubts that the earning power of a person can be increased several hundred dollars a year by a period in a continuation school."

"Other states in the Union are just beginning what we have already been through. Every day we get letters from all over, asking us how the people take to the plan of the continuation school; how the children will take it who have just gone from school to take up work, to be lassoed, so to speak, back to a compulsory education at a vocational school, and how the parents of these children will take it."

"There was a time, the speaker said, when those concerned did not like the plan. It was considered good politics to put a cramp in the work of the institution."

"The decks are now cleared," said Mr. Cooley, "and it is up to us to act. It is my belief that the students must see as few teachers as possible. The teacher must become a potent factor in the lives of the children, and they cannot do this by keeping at arms' length."

"During the half day every week that the child is under the care of the teacher, she must have a plan whereby she can impress upon that child the importance of good character, health and conduct. In view of the short time that we have with the student, we must sort out the thing which will leave the deepest impression in his mind; something that will affect his future as well as his present character and conduct."

"Such lessons are often obtained in a simple way. Some time ago a bicycle lamp was stolen from one of the boys. He immediately came to the office with a complaint. The director of the school, during the general exercise period, brought the question of theft before the whole student body."

"He did no mention anything about the theft of the lamp, Mr. Cooley said. He explained to the boys the reaction of the act of stealing upon one's future and his business operations. Without any religious reference the director gave his talk and then dropped the matter."

In a few days, Mr. Cooley said, a boy came to the office of the director, and opening his coat, took out the stolen lamp and handed it to the man.

"If such lessons can be used to make the students realize they are hurting themselves by doing wrong, don't you think that they should be used?"

Mr. Cooley said that in another school a machine was used to drive a small dynamo. Connected to the dynamo were four electric lights. A boy was told to turn the pulley and he found that it was very easy to do so. One light was switched on and the boy felt it in his arm; another was turned on, and he felt it still more. A third was turned on and the boy could hardly turn the pulley. If a light was again switched off relief was felt at once.

"The lesson here," said the speaker, "is that it takes energy and costs

GREEN BAY MAN IS HEAD OF STEWARDS

Dr. T. D. Williams Presents Report at Steward's Annual Meeting.

J. T. Phillips of Green Bay was elected president of the Appleton district stewards of the Methodist church at the annual meeting Wednesday morning at the home of Dr. T. D. Williams, 703 Lave street. In the report of the district superintendent, Dr. Williams said that 1,000 members were added to the district this past year; from $25,000 to $30,000 was expended on the improvement of church buildings; a legacy of $1,000 was left to the church at Manitowish by the John Schuetz estate; the trustees of the Methodist church at Seymour were bequeathed $2,000 by Peter Tubbs, and two laymen donated a parsonage at Mattoon.

Dr. Williams also reported that new churches were under construction at Mosinee, Niagara and Cedarville.

The stewards were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Williams at dinner following the business meeting.

money to produce electricity. The boy need not have any knowledge of electricity to understand the lesson."

The speaker said that in Milwaukee they were not ceasing building operations on the second unit of their extension school because of the slack business at the present time. He said that in many places where the extension of their school was essential they were hesitating because of the slump. Milwaukee is putting up a building that will cost over two million dollars, so that it can offer vocational education to future citizens of the United States.

DELEGATES VISIT OUTAGAMIE FARMS

Automobiles Carry Prominent Visitors to Several Sections of County.

Delegates to the convention of the Wisconsin State Grange, which closed its sessions Thursday at Neenah, were guests of the South Greenville Grange Friday and were treated to an automobile tour of the leading farms of the county.

About 50 people made the trip. They visited the George R. Schaefer farm, where a pure bred Holstein herd was on exhibition, then viewed W. G. Jamieson's Guernsey herd. They stopped at the William Menning farm and ended up their morning trip at Orange hall, Greenville, where they were served a delicious dinner, and were tendered a reception. The ladies of the Greenville organization served the dinner.

The first stop in the afternoon was at the R. J. Schaefer farm. Here they inspected Mr. Schaefer's pure bred herd and did likewise at the Hans Anderson and Charles Haase farms. Two Ayresboro herds were on exhibition at the farms of John Ihde and Herman Ihde, town of Clayton Winnebago county. The latter Mr. Ihde is state master of the Wisconsin Grange. The tour ended at Neenah.

Delegates from the granges in all parts of Wisconsin attended the meetings at Neenah, which were addressed by leading speakers, including J. C. Ketchum, congressman-elect from Michigan, who is master of the Michigan grange. A number of farmers from Outagamie enjoyed the sessions.
